Angry [illegible] from Lab employes

LIVERMORE — The defeat Monday of a bill permitting collective bargaining at the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory has drawn heavy criticism from employe groups at the 6200-person facility.

Employes and their representatives attacked both Lab management and the state's two United States senators for "insensitivity" toward rank and file workers.

The California State Employes Association (CSEA), which represents 110,000 workers statewide, said yesterday it would send out letters asking member employes to write and demand action on the collective bargaining provision, which could still be implemented.

A procedural move by Sen. S.I. Hayakawa (R-Calif.) struck the provision from a non-nuclear appropriations bill for fiscal year 1977. The bill would provide money that LLL has been spending since last October.

The provision was sponsored by Rep. Pete Stark (D-Oak.). A high priority item for the Ninth District Congressman for almost a year, the Stark amendment was introduced due to the "hundreds" of complaints he gets every year from LLL employes.

A long-time Livermore Lab employe who declined to be named asked yesterday, "Does Hayakawa have to see the same kind of strife like at the (San Francisco State) campus before he will take action?"

The employe, a member of the Society of Professional Scientists and Engineers (SPSE) as well as CSEA, blasted Hayakawa's statement explaining the move, which said: "I have visited this laboratory recently and I found no evidence of the turmoil and strife that was brought forward as a justification for this (legislation)."

County's hard look at fair under way, verdict next month

An expected "no-stone-unturned" probe of County Fair Association operations and procedures is now in progress and expected to reach county supervisors by May 1, according to the county's Roland Mayne, who is spearheading the report.

The thorough look into the structure and practices of the County Fair operation in Pleasanton was ordered by supervisors some two months ago.

Some supervisors have been critical of the makeup of the board, certain business practices, in addition to wanting to clarify the association's relationship with the county.

Mayne would not elaborate Thursday on what specific areas had been discussed to date or what persons he had met with, aside from Lee Hall, secretary-manager of the association.

Asked what persons were conducting the look into Fair operations, Mayne mentioned only himself. He added that he believed supervisors would want the report by May 1.

Hall was not available for comment Thursday, being in Sacramento for a Western Fairs Association race committee meeting. It was indicated he might stay over for a state fairs and expositions budget session this morning.

The relationship of the county and association was brought into critical focus last June when a 49-day strike of county employees brought pickets to fairgrounds' entrances and shutdown the annual 12-day race meeting.

The Fair claimed it lost $403,072 in revenues because of the severe decline in attendance.

Attendance for the 15-day fair amounted to just 221,875, a 48.8 per cent drop from the previous year.

The association was also faced with two unexpected debts; paying for legal assistance during Fair-time to try and get pickets withdrawn, and repairs to a well pump which broke down.

Hall and directors, in turn, have been concerned over what they believe is a cavalier attitude on the part of state fairs and expositions budget officials. The association requested consideration for additional aid months ago, beyond the $65,000 maximum allotted for operations, but were turned down.

Hall's report on the WFA race committee meeting and a committee recommendation to formally lay to rest the 43-year old parade at Fair time are expected to be heard.

Directors are scheduled to hold their regular monthly meeting Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Fairgrounds administrative offices. — by Al Fischer

Class squeeze at Chabot, project lags

Though construction on three major classroom centers at Chabot Valley Campus is now almost a month behind schedule, Dr. Reed Buffington said Thursday he expects the buildings to be ready for fall classes in September — "though it will be tight," he added.

The two new buildings, including an independent learning center, and additions to science and math classrooms, are vitally needed to meet an expected upsurge in enrollment.

The Valley Campus now has an enrollment of 1,000 day students and an additional 400 are expected in September.

Buffington, superintendent of the South County Community College District which includes Chabot Valley Campus, denied speculation that slowness in construction could cause 300 to 400 students to be turned away.

However, project architect Delp Johnson told the South County board Tuesday the project is just 41 per cent complete with 47 per cent of the alloted construction time having elapsed.

Buffington said one of the delays was caused by the fact that soft ground on the site couldn't initially support a 90-ton crane, needed to raise walls for the buildings being constructed.

The walls have since gone up and work is progressing on the two 56-by-56 foot buildings.

The contract target date for completion has been August 15, but Buffington believes the ready date could be close to the Sept. 19 opening of classes.

Ninety-ton crane is one cause for delay

In addition to expected sizable enrollments from Livermore, Dublin and Pleasanton high schools, the college will also be accepting students from Foothill High School's first-ever senior class which graduates in June.

Dr. Barbara Mertes is Dean of Chabot Valley Campus, located on Collier Canyon Road utside of Livermore.

Pipeline plan spawns talks of referendum

Pleasanton Council Member Frank Brandes and Zone 7 Director Robert Pearson told The Times yesterday they will support a grass roots effort to referend the bond financing for the LAVWMA pipeline.

Both elected officials have regretted that LAVWMA (Livermore-Amador Valley Water Managemnt Agency) did not choose to put the question to Valley voters again and that's why they think the referendum is in order.

Three other Valley officials who are on record either against the pipeline itself or against failure to consult voters about the bonds, could not be reached for comment yesterday. They are Zone 7 Directors Gib Marguth and Richard Ryon and VCSD Director Ann Jolley.

Brandes said he respected the opinions of his fellow council members, Ken Mercer and Robert Philcox, who are the city's delegates to LAVWMA, but his conclusion "happens to disagree with theirs".

Brandes thinks that demineralization and reclamation is the answer for the Valley, not a pipeline. Once a pipeline is funded by the federal government to do the job, Brandes thinks the feds will abandon the Valley and never come through with funding for even partial recycling. Pearson has the same view.

Pearson added a crowning irony to his argument. In the past he has been identified as a "no-growther" and now he advocates forgetting the pipeline and instead demineralizng the drinking water at its source. If you don't do that, the underground water level will drop so much in 10 years that there won't be any water for growth, said Pearson. Such ironies.

Pearson and Brandes feel that LAVWMA should lobby to get funding for demineralization of the water. They had some hope this week with the announcement from Washington that the grant deadlines for local clean water projects have been extended one year. That would appear to offer more time to Pearson to pitch for demineralization, which he thinks is less expensive than LAVWMA's consultants estimate. It also might offer time for LAVWMA to lobby the state to get the discharge standards loosened, which Pearson thinks is the real way out of the whole dilemma.

Recall plan reaction eases fear

Valley officials don't appear to be too worried by the recall threatened against all 15 Pleasanton, Livermore and VCSD elected legislative officials posts.

The Times was able to reach only three yesterday, but got a perspective on how sentiment is running about Livermore resident Paul Tull's suggestion of a recall.

The attitude seems to be summed up by Livermore Council Member Marshall Kamena who said that if a recall action is proper and it goes to the ballot and enough voters recall the council, then democracy will have been served and a council member should never fear that.

Of course, Kamena does not agree with Tull that the council deserves help out of office. Tull's position is that the three governing bodies went against the wishes of their constituents by voting directly for a $38 million sewage pipeline to San Francisco Bay, instead of referring the question to the public, as was done last November. The vote then killed the project financing, primarily because of heavy opposition from Livermore.

But LAVWMA is under a mandate from the state to clean up the Valley's effluent and the officials took what they felt was virtually the only way out, said Kamena. They picked the most practical and economical way of doing the job; the alternatives offered by the recallers were extremely expensive, he said.

Another Livermore Council Member, Dale Turner, said, "Sure I'm concerned about the recall, but others tell me there is no opportunity for a recall. I believe that I did what I am elected to do."

Pleasanton Council Member Frank Brandes, one of the few Valley officials to vote in favor of putting the question before the voters again, said that he was the only council member there to vote against a pipeline solution. Since the recall presumably is aimed at those who supported the pipeline, he feels he would be exempt.

Festival '77 planners

Community activists interested in planning Livermore's Festival '77 are invited to a meeting at Linda Heiner's home Monday, April 11 at 8 p.m., located at 3821 Santa Clara. No date was given in an article printed in the April 6 edition of The Times. The festival is an annual event that involves artists, entertainers and local organizations.

It'll cost you

The cost of building a three-bedroom single family home in the Bay Area increased 13.9 percent in the last 12 months, Bank of America reported today. That structure, exclusive of land, is now pegged at $45,326. For one view of what all this means, turn to today's Editorial Page.

First night flop

Los Angeles Dodger pitcher Don Sutton didn't allow a San Francisco Giant hit after the fourth inning in a 5-1 win on Major League Baseball's first hectic day of the seson.

The contest was a good start for new Dodger skipper Tom LaSorda, while the Giants' rookie manager Joe Altobelli will be less nostalgic over his debut. For details, see sports.

Hasseltine heads twin health agency

Lesher News Bureau

MARTINEZ — County Supervisor Eric Hasseltine, Danville, has been elected chairman of the governing board of the Alameda-Contra Costa Health Systems Agency.

The governing board meeting Wednesday announced the appointments of 23 members of the eventual 30 who will be on the governing body of the agency.

The main task of the governing board will be to appoint members to the governing body.

The 30-member governing body will be involved with health planning in the two-county area. Eventually the governing body will rule on all hospital construction and additional services proposed in the area.

The governing body will also be charged to review all federal grants in the health field in the two counties.

The initial budget of the agency is $650,000.

The Health Systems Agency is replacing the Comprehensive Health Planning Association of both counties which were phased out last July.

The associations reviewed all hospital projects in their areas but did not have the power to halt duplications of service.

Needed: People to use phones

WALNUT CREEK — It's enough to make Alexander Graham Bell smile: According to a new book of statistics, there are twice as many telephones as people in Danville.

"The World's Telephones," a booklet published by American Telephone and Telegraph Company, shows there are 42,002 telephones in Danville — 2.2 for each man, woman and child in the town of about 19,000.

That is more than three times the national average of .69 phones per person, and highest of all communities in the Bay Area.

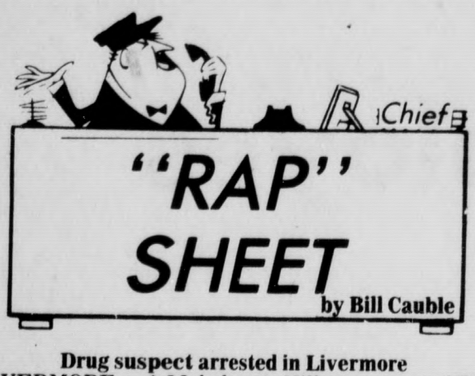
Of seven major U.S. cities with more phones than people, four are in California and two are in the Bay Area.

Danville and Walnut Creek top all "bit phone" cities: Washington D.C., 1.40 per person, Southfield Mich., 1.33; Champaign Ill, 1.10, San Francisco, 1.056; Palo Alto, 1.03; Fullerton, 1.029, and Newport Beach, 1.017.

Why more phones in Danville?

That's hard to explain, according to Pacific Telephone spokesperson Candice Steelman. "Perhaps that's because it's an affluent area. But then again, that doesn't necessarily hold up. There are very affluent places in California where not everyone has a phone."

"And there are other places, where you'd expect it least, where everyone in the family has a phone."



Drug suspect arrested in Livermore

LIVERMORE — A Mokelumne Hill man arrested Tuesday for alleged reckless driving and driving while under drug influence was rearrested the same day on suspicion of attempting to obtain drugs without a prescription, police report.

Jerry Wayne Ament, 23, was booked on suspicion of the above charges in Livermore City Jail.

Investigators said Ament, complaining of a bronchial infection, called his doctor and asked for a prescription for Tussionex, a controlled drug. The doctor reportedly told Ament he did not need the drug and was refused.

Police said Ament allegedly phoned Longs Drug on First Street and identified himself as a local doctor. He "prescribed" Tussionex for himself.

Ament was arrested when he allegedly tried to pick up the prescription. Police said the pharmicist on duty knew that the doctor in question was out of town.

Earlier in the day, Ament was arrested after police observed him allegedly drive through a red light at more than 70 mph. He was cited for reckless driving and arrested for driving under the influence of drugs.

On the later incident, Ament was booked on suspicion of false representation to obtain drugs.

East Avenue vandalism reported

LIVERMORE — More than $1500 damage was done Monday when vandals armed with BB guns shot out windows at several businesses and cars along East Avenue.

Plate glass, showcase and windows at Big T Market, the Fish Factory and Texaco service station were reported broken. Windows to three cars belonging to the National Car Rental Co. were also damaged.

Estimates of the damage range to $1510. There are no suspects.

$4000 in jewelry taken from Elm Street home

LIVERMORE — Burglars took an estimated $4000 in rings and pendants from an Elm Street residence Tuesday afternoon, police reported.

Burglars apparently forced a side window to gain entry to Sidoino Lorenzo DuBuclet's home between 3 and 5:30 p.m. Tuesday. There are no suspects.

Valuables stolen from Portola storage center

LIVERMORE — An estimated $1460 in household goods was removed from a storage locker at 836 Portola Ave. early Monday, police reported.

Gary Francis Dalton reported the theft of a color television, sewing machine, a stereo system and assorted pieces of furniture.

Police said burglars pried open a padlock to gain entry. There are no suspects.

Man caught holding bank bag at clothing store

LIVERMORE — One of four men who entered The Squire clothing store at 1983 Second St. Saturday afternoon was discovered moments later in the store office holding a bank bag containing $250 cash, police reported.

The store manager said four men entered the store simultaneously about 1:45 p.m. and each went to a different section. The manager said after helping one man, he went to the back room and found another holding the cash. He told the man to leave and called police.

No arrests were made.

Clothes taken from Pleasanton apartment

PLEASANTON — Burglars forced the front door to a Golden Road apartment and stole clothing worth more than $350, police reported.

Thomas Jay Todd told police that a suit and other men's clothing were taken. There are no suspects.

Head trustee ...Mrs. Hudgins

Dorothy Hudgins of Livermore was elected president of the South County Community College Board of Trustees Tuesday night. This marks Mrs. Hudgins' third time as board leader. She has served since the Valley gained a position on the board for Chabot College in 1967. Lawrence "Ted" Jarvis of Castro Valley was elected secretary-treasurer.

Horse trails spark protests

DANVILLE — The best laid plans of the East Bay Regional Park District (EBRPD) may go awry as far as their proposed horse and hiking trail from Las Trampas Regional Wilderness to Mt. Diablo State Park is concerned.

Although the project was approved by EBRPD officials last October, they sought public input at a hearing March 29 from those people who would be directly affected by the trail. They notified them by mailing explanatory brochures.

The hearing was held at Monte Vista High School in Alamo.

Those attending the hearing protested. Their main squawk wasn't over the cost factor that could run as high as $150,000. It was about the proposed staging areas to be set up along the trail.

According to Jana Olson, trails coordinator for EBRPD, the development of the staging areas are to provide an eastern entrance to Las Trampas. When completed, she said the trails willform another portion in the EBRPD's Golden Loop trail.

The Loop is part of a master plan approved several years ago, Olson pointed out.

The aim of the Golden Loop is to develop a network of trails connecting Tilden, Wildcat Canyon, Briones, Mt. Diablo, Las Trampas, Chabot and Redwood Parks, she said.

Most of the protests coming from the 200 people attending the hearing revolved around environmental impact — air pollution, additional traffic, noise and dust pollution.

One man said the hikers would be all right, but not the horses.

"At least hikers don't leave manure behind them," he said.

The proposed staging areas would be large enough to accommodate horse trailers and restroom facilities.

The physical locations of the staging areas were also protested. One of them would be in view of Taos, Eugene O'Neil's home.

Fire Commissioner William Orr, who attended the hearing, expressed concern over horses blocking the right of way when emergency vehicles needed to pass.

He indicated it would be difficult to get around 300 or 400 horses.

Horses Association members told him horses could be turned off to the right hand side of the road as well as a car.

Another man said he thought the whole idea was nothing more than a design to cater to the "horsey set" in Danville.

Olson said there would be another public hearing "sometime in May," to air another proposal. It would be based on input received at the March 29 hearing.

Personnel shift set in Amador

One vice - principalship and possibly two at Dublin High School are being vacated and a third Amador Valley Joint High School District administrator will go on medical retirement April 15, according to Carl Krause, assistant superintendent for personnel.

Krause confirmed Thursday that Alan Wadsworth, vice principal in charge of buildings and grounds and also responsible for some counseling services and student affairs, has requested reassignment to classroom duties.

Wadsworth came to the district from Hayward two years ago.

A second vice principal, Dennis Wong, is reported giving strong consideration to leaving education to operate a restaurant at Twain Harte in the Sierras. Wong was named a vice principal a year ago with emphasis on student discipline. He also serves as director of athletics.

Krause said no committee had been formed to seek a replacement for Wadsworth.

A student - organized newsletter, dubbed an underground product, speculated that a committee was being formed with student activities director John Willoughby as a member to find a successor for Wong.

Sam Ramey, principal at Valley High School, the district's continuation school, has decided to take a medical retirement effective April 15 after nine years as principal at Valley.

Ramey started his career in education as a teacher with the Monmouth Independence Unified School District in Oregon.

After three years, he became superintendent of a district in Gardiner, Oregon. He later held positions at Alhambra High in Martinez and with the Job Corps at Camp Parks.

During a recuperative period after recent illness, Ramey has been spending several day a week doing volunteer counseling at Westcom Industries in Richmond, an annex of Diablo Therapy Center.

Gary Cochran has served as Valley's principal in Ramey's absence.

Nine for Dublin maid event

DUBLIN — Nine pretty maids will line up May 6 at the Castlewood Country Club to see which one will be the new Maid of Dublin.

Dublin's Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the event.

The entrants are from Dublin and San Ramon. A $750 scholarship is the top award.

First runner - up will receive a $50 savings bond; second, $25.

The filing deadline was March 21.

If the winner is a resident of Dublin, she will represent Dublin in the Alameda County Maid Contest.

If she is a San Ramon resident, she will represent Dublin in the Contra Costa County Contest.

In the event the winner is a Contra Costa County resident, the highest ranking Alameda County resident will represent Dublin in the Alameda County Maid Contest.

Lab workers fume

"We invited him to talk to the workers," the unnamed LLL employe said. "He visited with management. Management doesn't let him talk with employes that might tell him what's going on here."

Two University of California representatives and a Livermore Lab spokesman are currently in Washington, D.C. lobbying against the bill using taxpayers' money, he claimed, while no one is speaking for workers.

William Craib, president of the CSEA, issued a statement saying, "It was a disappointing but not an unexpected anti - labor action which shows where his (Hayakawa's) true sympathies lie.

"It's distressing that the university and labs are willing to spend more time killing the bargaining provision than in trying to resolve the problems locally in meeting with the employes and their organizations.

"As for Sen. Cranston, we are dismayed that he let the employes down."

Cranston issued a statement after the defeat, saying he was "leaning" towards supporting the Stark amendment but was not yet ready to take action. "We're just not into this issue that much," a spokesman said.

Rich Martin, a CSEA spokesman in Sacramento, said yesterday that the collective bargaining provision would return to the House Committee on Science and Technology for reconsideration. He hopes a strong letter - writing campaign by affected employes would reverse the defeat.

Assembly Bill 1091, introduced this week by Assembly Majority Leader Howard Berman (D-Los Angeles), would provide collective bargaining for state employes. Berman sits on the Assembly Committee on Labor Relations.

The SPSE spokesman said a letter - writting campaign in support of AB 1091 would also be launched.

Both the Larwrence Livermore Lab and the University of California declined comment on the Stark provision. A Lab spokesman said LLL had not commented on the collective bargaining amendment in the past, and would not do so now.

A union spokesman, obviously angered at the defeat, yesterday said: "If it takes a strike, if we have to close down this place (LLL), then it's gonna happen."

REJOICE IN THE MIRACLE OF EASTER

VICTORY

If for this life only we have hoped in Christ, we are of all men most to be pitied.

But in fact Christ has been raised from the dead, the first fruits of those who have fallen asleep.

Death is swallowed up in Victory

"O death, where is thy victory?"
"O death, where is thy sting?"

The sting of death is sin, and the power of sin is the law. But thanks be to God, who gives us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.

Valleyview honors charter members

DUBLIN — On Easter Sunday, the Valleyview Church will receive twenty-one charter members. The new members come from the valley communities of Dublin, San Ramon, Livermore and Pleasanton. One couple comes from San Jose.

The Rev. Arthur L. Carl noted that the first services of the church were held in his home beginning last September 1976. Four families made up of 14 persons comprised the first congregation.

In October of 1976 the small group moved to the multi-purpose room of the Nielsen Elementary School in Dublin. Here they have worshipped for six months. Attendance now averages between 45 and 50.

"Valleyview Church seeks to serve the whole man. The spiritual is the most important," explains Pastor Carl. "Then we apply our new life in Christ to the way we think and feel, to our relationships with others, and to our physical health."

The young church has big dreams of building a church campus on their 13.7 acres at the top of Betlen Drive in Dublin. Right now an architect is being sought.

Christian Science lecture on healing

LIVERMORE — "God's power can 'change for the better any human situation.' " This is the theme which will be emphasized in a free public lecture by Horacio Omar Rivas, at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, 1772 3rd. St., on Saturday, April 9, at 10 a.m., in the Sunday school auditorium.

"The power of God, the healing power of infinite good, is capable of restoring health and morals to any person through spiritual means alone," Mr. Rivas will say. "The infinite power of God is available to all."

A native of Buenos Aires, Argentina, Mr. Rivas studied economics at the University of Buenos Aires and was in business there at one time. In 1967 he went to Boston as a translator for the Translation Dept. of the Christian Science Publishing Society. A year later he went into the healing ministry of Christian Science.

In his lecture, entitled, "The Power of God," he will show insights about healing through wholly spiritual means.

A member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship, Mr. Rivas is one of some 30 Christian Science lecturers who give more than 4000 talks and lectures each year on six continents.

Accompanying him on his tour is his wife, Heloisa, a native of Sao Paulo, Brazil.

Down zoning

Assemblyman Alister McAlister raises some interesting points with his legislation that would "require a city or county to pay damages" to a property owner for losses attributable to down - zoning. It is a proposal that could have widespread impact on these several communities if adopted by both houses of the State Legislature.

Assemblyman McAlister this time is limiting his compensation plan to instances where "owner has made a substantial investment in works or facilities" to bring services into that property, and the investment is then lost because the land - use designation is changed to "open space" or some similar category. The courts have in the recent past been narrowly divided on the liability of local government in such cases. McAlister's legislation would resolve that doubt in favor of the property owner.

Even more interesting is the argument the San Jose representative raises on behalf of the owner who "purchases unimproved property for $100,000 which thereafter appreciates in value to $1 million but is reduced in value to $600,000 because of down - zoning." Is that owner entitled to damages totalling $400,000?

That sounds very much like the argument now underway within these several Valley communities ... lands which were never able to attain their projected "highest and best use" because environmental hindsight, or failure to expand local utility services, or some new directive from on high ... scuttling the owner's development plans.

Still to be resolved is the financial "penalty" imposed on a property because the county assessor sees one "highest and best use" for that land, while local government is unwilling, or unable, to permit such a use. Some owners in this basin are being taxed for "industrial land" that must in fact be leased out for grazing, yielding income that pays no more than 20 percent of the property's tax bill.

It appears that, at long last, the state legislature may be about to get into that act.

Homes going up

The single family dwelling will still be very much in demand, although in somewhat smaller sizes, and much higher prices.

That is the picture painted for us by a number of sources this week. From the Association of Bay Area Governments we learn that San Francisco's population will continue to decline through 1990, with the result that "more people will be commuting across the Bay to their jobs."

Santa Clara and Contra Costa counties will bear the brunt of Bay Area growth over the next 23 years ... and will therefore also provide much of the 595,000 new housing units needed throughout these nine Bay counties by 1990.

It remains to see how many of those families will actually be able to afford that dream home ... or how the building industry will meet that need. The California Council for Environmental and Economic Balance advises that "if present trends continue, the average cost of a new home will be $78,000" by 1985. "Only the most affluent will be able to afford them."

In 1970, 47 percent of American families could buy the median - priced home; in 1976 just 27 percent of American households qualify for that same median dwelling. In six years, new - home prices have risen nearly 90 percent; monthly ownership costs grew even faster, rising 102.5 percent from 1970 to 1976.

One other item of interest: While our growth rate slows, home prices escalate and family size necessarily is reduced, the median age of this Bay Area populace is going to zoom upward ... from 25½ today to 33 years of age by 1990. This will place more people in the job market, and add to local pressures to provide industry, commerce and other sources of employment,.

Cost of glasses

If you've ever had to buy a pair of eyeglasses — and it seems as though more and more of us are put through that experience these days — then you have wondered if the $90 you shelled out for that purchase was as good a bargain as the $65 your neighbor paid for her glasses.

But because opticians have a "code of ethics" which prohibit them from advertising or even displaying the prices of frames and lens, your chances of "shopping around" for the best buy in specs is slim, or none.

There is interest in the United States Senate in changing all that. Some people are questioning the wisdom of state boards — dominated by opticians and optometrists — and which exercise tight control over their own industries, including that prohibition against "advertising" and that sort of unclean thing.

Most of us would prefer to see the eyeglass people lower their own lofty standards, if it also meant lowering some of their prices. Testimony in those Senate hearings reveals that "the profit on a pair of glasses may be as much as 400 or 500 percent." That's not "high professional ethics;" it's more like highway robbery.

There are several of these sacred cows still left from that day when America found it necessary to "protect the manufacturer from unfair retail practices." Whiskey, prescription drugs and eyeglasses are among the last of those "protected" items.

It's time to start protecting the consumer. Perhaps you'd like to pass that word along to Senators Cranston or Hayakawa. They can be reached in care of: Senate Office Building, Washington D.C., 20510.

FOCUS/Quotas

Jesse's tunnel

As much as we agree with the Rev. Jesse Jackson's comments on the dominance of "mass media" on the lives of young people and the multifronted assault on the family taking place in today's society, he again has undercut his credibility with insipid remarks concerning "quotas" and "white males."

Jackson blames the educational elite, specifically "white educators," for everything from the Vietnam war to full employment to slavery!

After reviewing a copy of his speech, presented to the press shortly before his talk to the Association of California School Administrators (ACSA) Monday in San Francisco, it is evident that Jackson is hung-up on "quotas."

He also has1 a fixation on us no good "white males."

Jackson says the "question of quotas is a red herring and code word used against us in a way similar to busing. Only affirmative action assures us of progress, and affirmative action is meaningless unless there are specific numerical goals which is what quotas are."

Then, to show he should not or cannot be refuted on this point, Jackson says, "Racism and sexism, whether conscious or not, are at the core of any attack of affirmative action and quotas."

Jackson will also tell you, as he did Monday, that quotas are not illegal and do not represent reverse discrimination.

And it don't rain in Indianapolis in the summer time, either!

Jackson, the national director of Operation PUSH (People United to Save Humanity), and thousands of others across the nation who are in or have easy access to "mass media," seem to suffer from acute tunnel vision when it comes to "quotas," busing and desegregation of schools.

Quotas, or the numbers game, is a favorite liberal loony game. It requires just one "player," the subject talking to himself.

If someone wants to play the numbers game, be advised that two of the "opening cards" might read NBA (National Basketball Association), and percentage of white male teachers (versus black, non-black and women) in ANY given school district.

The matter of busing, another Jackson-liberal loony harangue, is a fine example of gamboling through life with blinkers on.

Busing to achieve integration and equal educational opportunities is not only stupid, it's assinine.

If just one-tenth the effort spent in trying to legislate society and cram the demands of the few down the throats of the many were transferred to building better school facilities and providing better teachers, there would be millions of happier children and parents.

What Jackson and his ilk don't understand or don't want to understand is that education is the key to everything.

Give every child, regardless of race, color or creed, an equal chance for education.

These quota systems, especially as they apply to schools, have turned some areas of our nation (Boston, for one) into armed camps, wasted millions of taxpayer dollars (much of which has gone to well-paid executives), and done not one whit of good for black, white or non-black.

The present Carter administration has evidenced a return to humanistic practices, something absent in Washington, D.C. and other capitals of state and local government.

Perhaps Jackson should try and listen for awhile instead of making discriminatory attacks on HEW's Joseph Califano and any other "white male" in sight.

Bill Glazier:

Thanks for your recent piece on Young Bottom, the U.S.C. swimmer.

I along with parents whose children are afflicted with blindness, deafness, and paralysis — know now why our Deity is so preoccupied with a healthy fellow who can flutter his footsies faster than most anyone: the Man Upstairs is a sports buff.

Wanna know why there was no Divine Intervention in the case of the 5 day old baby in New York who was half devoured by a starving young dog? On that sad day the Lord was out of town with the Team.

Union strength

Editor, The Times:

John Edmands recently expressed the view in an editorial that union strength could be estimated by the number of people who belong to one. The fault in that analysis is the assumption that all people have equal influence and power. Consider the following: 1.) A good many union members are actually just the captives of an agency shop agreement. 2.) Many people are forced to pay dues to unions they are not members of, and disagree with. 3.) Dues money is regularly siphoned off into political coffers by union leadership to support candidates members are opposed to. 4.) Strikes by key government employees such as firemen can result in massive destruction in a city even though they may represent less than 1% of the population. 5.) An attempt is being made to unionize the military forces. 6.) New York City ... 20 patients died in hospitals and nursing homes because of an illegal strike ... there are union officials who argue that some deaths ... are the necessary price society must pay in order to secure ... the ultimate freedom of workers to strike ...

It really puzzles me why some people will attack corporations for making contributions to political campaigns and look the other way when big labor does the same thing. The Committee on Political Education (COPE) is actually just an attempt to launder money forcibly extracted from unwilling people and given to candidates hand picked by the labor barons. ... I leave it to the readers to draw their own conclusions about the extent of union power.

Why a pipeline?

Editor, The Times:

... Directors of The Alameda County Water District reportedly said of us: "They would have made that (Alameda Creek) the worst cesspool in the Bay if they had their way." "We've had soap suds in the creek; we've had fish dying."

I cannot imagine effluent which produces soap suds and fish kills in Alameda Creek being certified by EPA as meeting the 1985 mandated goal of "zero emmissions" which any pipeline to the Bay will presumably have to meet. Neither can I imagine an effluent polluted only by dissolved salts, which presumably could be voided into the Bay, producing "soap suds" and "fish dying" in Alameda Creek. In other words, if the problem is as bad as described the pipeline is unlikely to be allowed as a solution anyway. Therefore I don't see why The Alameda County Water District should be unhappy about our lack of haste in deciding to build the pipeline.

Voter betrayed

Editor, The Times:

The voters have been betrayed in the vote taken by LAVWMA to adopt the sewer pipe over the hill. This project was defeated by a 52% vote at the November election and a recent survey indicated that 92% of the people wanted to have the waste water used in the valley. It is my considered judgment that the voters of this valley would reject the same project again by a much larger margin particularly when...the project approved by LAVWMA is expected to cost some ten million dollars more than the one we rejected in November.

The Pleasanton Council can take little satisfaction in the fact that the voters of Pleasanton approved the plan by a very slight margin at a cost of some ten million less. Frank Brandes, to his credit, was the only one of the council to vote for putting the proposition to a vote.

... There has been a perversion of Democracy here. Public agencies that persist in disregarding the public good as well as the public will as is the case here, do more to destroy the confidence and the support of the people than about any other thing one can imagine.

I think it is time to rise up in righteous indignation and throw the rascals out. This is still the peoples' America and the best thing we can do... is to recall the whole damned bunch. The big question is, How many of you feel as I do about it?" Will you call me at 846-2151 and pledge a contribution to a recall campaign or indicate how you will help?

round the town

We sat there, warmed by the tea and the sunshine that filled our Sunday afternoon cup to the brim.

The conversation was easy, relaxed, interrupted often with laughter as someone recalled a light moment from the past.

We talked about mutual acquaintances from the distant past. We talked about a town, its leaders, its characters.

But mostly, we talked about houses.

And just the houses in our block.

A most unusual block, as it turned out.

Mary and Bob Bruce had offered to journey across the Bay and share their Sunday afternoon with us "because we have a few old snapshots we thought you might enjoy." Turn of the century photos, mostly, the kind they pasted into the family album in those days.

Their grandparents had a great many scenes to capture on camera in the years when Charles Bruce was one of the foremost builders of his day. There were "snapshots" of Niles Canyon and its stout stone bridges ... a Charles Bruce trademark.

There were many scenes of Wyntoon — the impressive Hearst estate tucked away in the remote northern reaches of California — suggesting that Charles Bruce had helped build that Hearst mansion, just as he had helped fashion Phoebe Apperson Hearst's earlier "Hacienda" on the ridge overlooking Pleasanton.

But the photos that captured our attention were those of homes, the people who posed on the front porch, the boys in knickers alongside wooden - rail fencing, the kind so popular in those farming days.

For Pleasanton was farm country, back then, and Second Street was on the borderline between the town's urban expanse and the resistance of untouched acres which reached up the hill and spilled on to Vallecitos, and beyond.

There was in fact just one house — "The Red House" — on that portion of Second Street, when Charles Bruce first took his family snapshots. It was a stately home, not large, but with the high - ceilinged, pillared "front parlor" that was a trademark of Bruce construction.

It was from that two - story, wood - frame dwelling that the Eruce family sent other generations to occupy other homes ... all built by Charles Bruce, and all within that same block.

Here was a man with the touch of genius. A builder whose massive foundations and liberal use of redwood were testimony to his own standards of excellence.

Here also was a designer 60 years ahead of his time ... providing generous window space upstairs and down that was unheard of in 1900. Charles Bruce built each home as if he intended for his own family to live there, and as often as not, that's just what happened.

Oh yes, he built other things. The Livermore High School Auditorium, for one. And "just about every bridge in Alameda County" that had an early 1900's datemark. His work was renowned for its durability. Most of those bridges still stand.

And most of his houses, too.

"He gave extra ceiling height to our living room because he felt it was in proportion to the room's other dimensions," Gertrude Arendt recalled. She still lives in that lovely little home, at the corner of Second and Angela. It had been built for Gertrude and Newton Arendt as their "wedding home," 55 years ago. No other family has ever lived there.

And it was then we began to unfold the secret of "the houses that Charles Bruce built."

There is the one on the other corner, Second and Abbie, and in over 50 years, just three families have known those rooms, shared that place.

So too with "The Red House" ... which has been painted white then pale green over the years ... but in close to 90 years the ownership has changed but twice since Charles and Laura Bruce started their family there.

And so it has been with the 70 - year - old brown shingle that my lady and I have shared and loved for just over two decades. We are but the third owners in the long history of that stout old home.

It was in the "back porch" of this last of the Bruce family homes where we sat, that Sunday afternoon, calling back to memory the legacy of one man, one town, in just one block.

Four homes, 265 years of living, shared by just ten families. And for those few moments, I couldn't imagine any other block anywhere in the world, with a story quite like ours.

MIKE ZAMPA

Trapped

Two great ladies of the British Isles celebrate Silver Jubilees this year.

Elizabeth Regina II, Queen of England, enters her 25th year on the throne, while the late Agatha Christie's murder whodunnit, "Mousetrap," goes into its 25th consecutive season on the London stage.

Only the former landmark occassion merits official recognition in the United Kingdom. It's certain, though, that of the millions of tourists who come to see England honor its Queen, many will jam the Amabassadors Theatre for the longest running play of any kind in the history of British theatre.

"Mousetrap" is as much a tourist attraction as crumpets and Trafalgar Square. It is one of the few plays in London requiring at least a week's advance booking. Even "Chorus Line," offers ticket availability 24 hours prior to curtain time, and it was voted best production of 1976 by West End theatre critics.

With a quarter-century of tradition and success for credentials, "Mousetrap seemed a likely import for the American stage. At least that's what Lee Sankowich and Rudi Golyn figured when they opened a Bay Area production March 7 at the Alcazar Theatre, 650 Geary in San Francisco.

After the first 30 days here, however, it's apparent "Mousetrap lost something in the crossing.

Critics have been unkind, calling the mystery classic dated and stodgy. Well, what isn't in England? That's the country's charm. The unkind cut is that theatre goers say the American version isn't suspenseful.

Agatha Christie without suspense? You might just as brazenly label Noel Coward a Junior Samples protege. Such a slander of a stage relic borders on heresey.

Unfortunately, it is near the truth.

There's really little wrong with the story. It is uncluttered in setting and plot and laced with subtle clues that confound all but master stage slueths.

The problem with this foreign import is that it fell into the wrong hands upon clearing U.S. customs. It has been treated poorly, like a Rembrandt shipped to GranTree Furniture Rental for public auction.

The set, the great hall of Monkswell Manor, a British guest house somewhere north of London, is authentic enough. The lighting makes some of the players look pink, others, embalmed.

At the root of the problem, however, are the performers. Almost none in the cast of eight seemed excited about working last Sunday's 3:30 matinee. Perhaps they haven't checked the labor department's unemployment figures for the month, or they were overcome by a typically magnificent San Francisco day.

Regardless, they should try harder. "Mousetrap" is the story of eight people, one a policeman, another a murderer, trapped by snow in Monkswell Manor. Gauging from the sleepy performances, it looked more like the Seven Dwarfs holed up in a Reno motel with Pinocchio.

All but one of the characters are Englishmen. Some of the accents were more closely rooted, though, in Mill Valley.

One Italian house guest at the manor, the mysterious Mr. Paravicini, spoke with a twang not heard since McHale's Navy sailed from Taratupa to Volte Fiore.

His unforgettable lines included; "She's a nice," and, "I'mma magine you no a like me."

One of the house guests in "Mousetrap," is strangled to death when the lights go down. Unfortuantely, it wasn't Paravicini.

As with other Agatha Christie whodunnits, the denouement of "Mousetrap" unravels slowly, in a lengthy speech with bits and pieces dripped on the audience.

The ending offers a surprise twist. At the Alcazar, however, nobody slammed their forehead or shouted; "I should have known that."

By then most were engrossed in planning dinner reservations.

I'mma have the ravioli please.

Club of the week

What's a Roadrunner?

From a single physical therapist traveling to polio patients' homes, to a comprehensive diagnostic and rehabilitation facility, the growth of Mr. Diablo Rehabilitation Center over the past quarter of a century has been the result of cooperative efforts of volunteers and professionals.

Today the center offers rehabilitation services to handicapped individuals of all ages, races and economic levels. It provides help for physical emotional and vocational needs.

Patients come from Contra Costa and surrounding counties, including Alameda, to be served at the facilities in Pleasanton Hill and Richmond.

Support for the center comes from income supplemented by the fund-raising efforts of nearly 1,000 women in 17 auxiliary units which include the diligent Roadrunners Unit in this valley. The Terrace Tea Room and two thrift shops engage the energies of the volunteers who provide, in addition, many hours of clerical and therapeutic assistance at the center.

You, too, can become part of this coordinated effort to help the handicapped by coming to the membership luncheon hosted by the Roadrunners Tuesday, April 12 at the San Ramon home of Caryll Elliott at 11 a.m. Just call Caryll at 828-5225 or Anna Stevens, president, at 828-4545.

Assisting in the event are Maxine Ballew of Pleasanton, Jean Bchar of Dublin, Marty Walker, Sue Pierce, Billie LaPere and Carolyn Harley of San Ramon, and Ann Hanscomb of Danville.

Anna Stevens and Caryll Elliott.

Services provided by the rehabilitation center include physical and occupational therapy, speech and audiology services, vocational training, counseling, and year-round diagnostic and tutoring programs for educational handicapped.

No hard liquor in the white house

The new social fare at the White House rules out hard liquor and that pleases anti-whiskey forces, including alot of Jimmy Carter's fellow Southern Baptists. But some of them frown at his occasionally sipping a cocktail.

There's no "foot - stomping campaign" about it, but there is some questioning, says Theo Sommerkamp of Columbus, Ohio, editor of the Ohio Baptist Messenger. At the same time, the newly enunciated policy of only wine and no hard drinks at White House dinners, receptions and other social functions during the Carter tenure reassured many Southern Baptists and other evangelists.

Tonight

Four Livermore churches will commemorate the Way of the Cross tonight at Boot Hill Park, at the corner of Wall Street and Stanley Boulevard.

The stations of the cross will be read by members and clergy of the participating churches — St. Bartholomew's Episcopal, Holy Cross Lutheran, Asbury Methodist and First Christian. Those who accompany the solemn procession will carry the heavy cross during the candlelit ceremony.

Parking will be at Granada High School, and the public is asked to gather at 7:15 p.m.

Water pollution and food label reading

LIVERMORE — On April 20, 7:30 to 9 p.m., the Evening Food Classes of the Diversified Adult Education Classes of the First Presbyterian Church will present Gilbert Marguth and Florence Harrison speaking on "Water pollution and the Recycling of Water." The class is open to the public and will meet in the 3rd and 4th grade rooms at the church.

The Foods Study group will meet with Marge Thompson at the Safeway Store on May 18 for label reading, pricing and information on meat.

They will be joined by the Adult Education class from Livermore High School. For further information concerning these talks, call Pat Waters at 447-3624.

Reverend Whaley ordained to ministry

PLEASANTON — The Rev. Tom Whaley, new associate Pastor of First Baptist Church, was ordained to the Gospel Ministry on Sunday, April 3, by a council of ordained men meeting at La Sierra First Baptist Church, Riverside, California.

Reverend Whaley is responsible for the Youth Ministry at First Baptist Church, which includes a Youth Choir and a string ensemble.

He invites any young person from seventh grade through college age to join the group which meets at 6 p.m. on Sundays. For further information on this group, you may call Whaley at 443-5622, or 846-2593, the church office.

Whaley and his wife, Karol, are in Fresno this Friday and Saturday with a group of young people from the church which is attending the "Youth Alive" conference which is expected to attract 3000 young people.

'Grim Reaper' unusual movie

DUBLIN — The public is invited to see the most unusual moving picture of this decade, "The Grim Reaper," a motion picture that "dares to tell the truth about demonology."

The movie contains many accurate Biblical scenes such as the earthquake which freed Paul and Silas from their prison stocks, Samuel rising from the grave, King Saul and the Witch of Endor, fiery serpents terrorizing the Israelites, and more.

It is sponsored by the First Baptist Church of Dublin-San Ramon, 20801 San Ramon Valley Blvd, Friday, April 15, at 7:30 p.m. Admission is free.

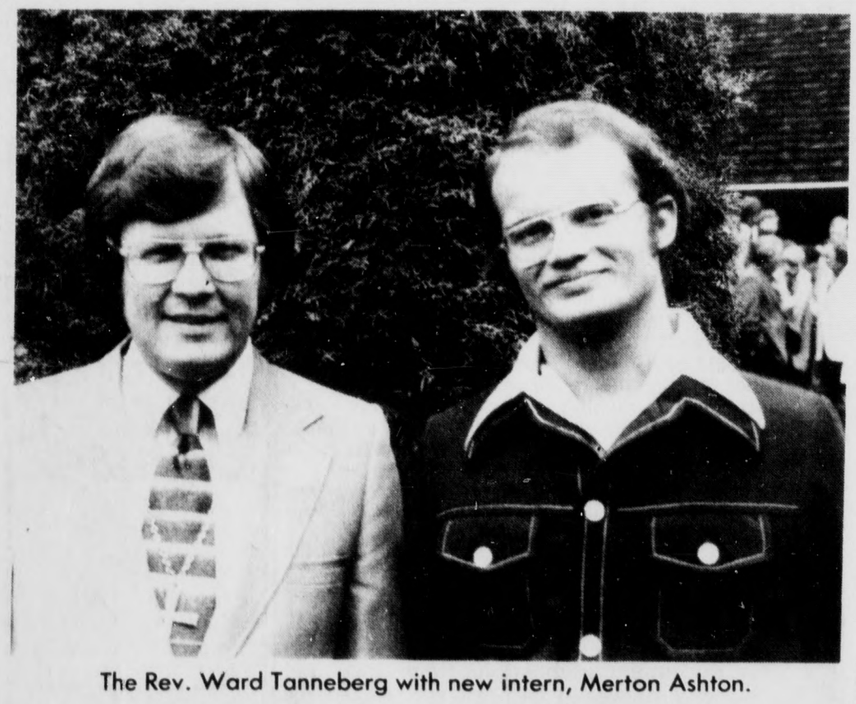
Garden plots at Asbury

LIVERMORE — Nine 10 by 50 foot plots for gardens will be available this summer at Asbury Methodist Church on East Avenue.

Water and rototilling will be provided by the church. The lots are located at the rear of the church property immediately behind the rear cross driveway.

A fee of $10 will defray the expenses. Contact Joe Baker, 447-8774.

AWAKE to CHRISTIAN SCIENCE



The Rev. Ward Tanneberg with new intern, Merton Ashton.

Valley Christian Center trains ministerial intern

Merton Ashton of Santee is serving as a ministerial intern at Dublin's Valley Christian Center under a unique program instituted by Bethany Bible College in Santa Cruz.

A record 27 students are taking part in the program during spring semester this year.

As an intern, Ashton will spend approximately four months under the instruction of the Rev. Ward Tanneberg, learning the day - to - day details of pastoral work.

The innovative ministerial internship program was instituted three years ago, and has received praise from pastors and interns alike. All ministerial and Christian education majors at Bethany are required to participate in the program for a full semester.

Bethany Bible College is a four-year, co-educational college affiliated with the Assemblies of God and is professional accredited by the American Association of Bible College and Western Association of Schools and Colleges.

A thousand thanks

OAKLAND — Bishop Floyd L. Begin, founder of the Thousand Thanks group, an exclusive "club" with 52 members, who give $1000 or more each year to Catholic Charities, said the response has been overwhelming.

"They help the poor, the aging, the disillusioned, the immigrants, anyone in need."

Increased giving helps missions

The United Presbyterian Church, which last July heavily cut its program and staff to match a shrinking budget, reports that increased giving now has made possible a stepping up of the church's work overseas.

The denomination's council, taking account of the turn-around at a meeting in St. Louis, voted to allocate an additional $600,000 to missions operations.

Dr. Joyce Brothers

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: Since my father discovered that I am a homosexual he's made my life miserable. I broke up with a man I'd lived with for three years and now, just when I need some support from my family, my dad tells me that homosexuals can't maintain a relationship for longer than a few weeks because we're all sick. Even though I know this isn't true, it upsets me terribly. This emphasis my father places on fidelity is really a laugh — he's never been faithful to my mother and she knows it. Is there anything I can do? — L.L.

DEAR L.L.: Yes, you might tell your father that recent studies have indicated that male homosexuals are capable of establishing deep emotional bonds and of having relationships that last just as long and are just as durable as those of heterosexuals.

Dr. LaMonte Ohlson, an Ohio State University psychologist, selected unmarried undergraduate students in Colorado. All were males between 20 and 25 years of age and none had ever undergone psychoanalysis. From this group, he chose, at random, 30 who were overtly homosexual and 30 who were overtly heterosexual. All were then given psychological tests for self - disclosure. He found no differences between the two groups.

Dr. Ohlson concluded that male homosexuals have the ability to establish bonds of trust, love and affection with members of the opposite ex, and with the same sex, equally as well as heterosexuals do.

Of course, your father should see you as an individual first, but because of his own problems, he may not be able to do this. You may have to accept the fact that he may never be able to understand you or give you the support you seek.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I have a beautiful 6 - year - old whom I adore. I left her father three years ago and he left such a terrible aftertaste that I never want to see any man again. I really mean that. I have a good job and I intend to raise my daughter without hassles from males in her life, or mine. My mother thinks this is terrible and is very upset but I can't run my life according to her rules. We're happy, my daughter and I, and she certainly doesn't seem deprived. How can I make my mother understand we're living in a new age of freedom for women and children? — R.T.

DEAR R.T.: Whether you marry or form other relationships with men is strictly up to you. You may still be suffering from the anger and pain of your marriage. Time may help to heal these wounds and eventually you may be able to again see men as individuals, rather than as a group, all of whom remind you of your child's father.

I'm not as concerned with your problem of trying to make your mother understand as I am with my trying to make you understand that you may be harming your daughter if you instll in her the bitterness and anger you feel toward her father and males, in general.

First of all, it's important to remember that her father is a part of her and she will feel this more and more as she grows older. If you teach her to hate him, you're also teaching her to hate part of herself. This is emotionally damaging to a child.

Not all children need a man in the house to be healthy and adjusted, but they do need to know some positive male figures — a grandfather, an uncle or a male friend. Try to teach her that real freedom comes from the ability to see all people as individuals.

Dr. Lamb

Movie was misleading

DEAR DR. LAMB — My friend and I saw the movie, "One Flew Over The Cuckoo's Nest." Is it true that our mental institutions give operations on the brain as they show to make the patients more obedient? Also the shock treatments look so brutal. Why do they give shock treatments and are they as the movie shows them to be?

My friend is from Czechoslovakia and said she wanted very much to see the movie because it is directed by one of her fellow countrymen who was deported.

Please, please comment on this as it is very disturbing to me to wonder about our own mental institutions and how and who runs them.

DEAR READER — Movies and TV are very effective opinion molders — even so-called objective newscasts. I can see the movie has had that effect on you.

No, operations on the brain are not used to make patients more obedient. That is pure fiction and no doubt millions of viewers have been misled as you have been.

Years ago an operation called the prefrontal leukotomy was done to cut large parts of the frontal lobes of the brain from the rest of the brain. This did modify behavior. A related operation is still done today involving about a centimeter of the brain where personality is affected. Such an operation is only done in extreme situations where the patient is so uncomfortable with his anxiety-type reactions that he is totally incapacitated. It is not done to control the patient's behavior but to relieve him from discomfort. The patient must give his consent if he is able to, and if he is not his nearest relative or those legally responsible must do so. It is nothing like depicted in the movie.

Electric shock treatments are used primarily to treat depressions. You may not be aware of how uncomfortable and unhappy a depressed patient can be — so depressed that he may be suicidal. Depression and manic depression can be very dangerous to the patient. Electric shock used properly can relieve such reactions and can be life saving. Shock therapy relieves the patient's suffering. That is what medicine is supposed to do whether it is a pill for painful arthritis or shock therapy for total despair and misery.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER

Q. "HOW DO NEON SIGNS WORK?"

KAREN DeSPAIN
UPLAND, CA

A. NEON SIGNS ARE GLASS TUBES CONTAINING NEON AND SMALL AMOUNTS OF OTHER GASES, WHICH GLOW BRIGHTLY WHEN AN ELECTRIC CURRENT IS SENT THROUGH THE TUBE.

At night, we see many colorful neon lights on stores and on advertising signs. Such signs are called "neon" because the first ones contained neon, a colorless, odorless gas found in small amounts in the air around the earth.

An ordinary electric light bubl produces light because a wire inside it is heated by electricity until it glows.

But a neon lamp works differently. There is no wire running through the tube. A neon lamp contains a special kind of gas that glows when you turn on the electricity.

Neon signs are made of long glass tubes shaped into words and designs. The air is removed from the tube and a small amount of neon gas is let in.

When an electric current is sent through the tube, the gas gives off a bright reddish light.

Other gases, such as helium, argon, and krypton, are used in neon signs to make lights that are blue, yellow, orange, and green.

Opening lead — J ♥

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Since this is a week for mistakes, we made a rather unusual one when we referred to the town of Bath in England as being a seaside resort. It is a resort, but far from the sea.

South complained about his bad luck. He had won the heart lead in dummy, led the eight of trumps and lost a finesse to West's king. Back came a second heart. South won, entered dummy with the jack of trumps and lost a diamond finesse.

West led another heart for the third defensive trick and there was no way for South to shut out the ace of clubs. Down one!

North kept silent for awhile, but when South preceeded to berate North for not having bid three notrump, North finally exploded.

He pointed out that with stoppers in all suits South might well have bid three notrump instead of three spades and that bad play, not bad luck had cost the spade game.

North was right. South should win the first heart in his own hand and play the ace and queen of diamonds. Then he would get in dummy with the ace of hearts and discard his losing heart on the diamond jack.

Easter action in Dublin

Sack racers get off to a hair - flying start Wednesday at Easter Happening week sponsored by the Valley Community Shannon Community Park in Dublin. The event was part of Services District Recreation Department.

Rotary sing-along set to benefit Dublin unit

DUBLIN — Come on along and join in the sing - along rally being presented by the Dublin Rotary Club Saturday from 12 to 12:30 p.m. in front of Mervyns in Dublin.

The event is being held to raise money in conjunction with the Honorary Mayors Race being sponsored by the Dublin Lions Club. The Lions invited all area service clubs to participate in the race. Dublin's Rotarians responded to the call.

Their candidate is Harvey Tulchinsky.

The election will be determined by the amount of money raised in the name of any candidate. Every 10 cents collected counts for one vote. May 14 is the deadline.

The Rotarians plan to donate money they collect to the Dublin Historical Preservation Association's Heritage Center.

There will be a western, old - fashioned flavor to the program which will be presented from the back of a truck. Rotarian Dave Burton will be leading the singing and performing solos. Marty Burden will also perform.

After the performance in front of Mervyns, the group will move on to K-Mart, Alpha Beta, Safeway and Lucky. Each show will last one - half hour.

Wife beating victims to rap

The South County Women's Center, 25036 Carlos Bee Boulevard, Hayward, will sponsor a rap session for women who are in or have been in a battering situation.

The session will run from 9 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. April 25 and it will be a safe situation, according to Mary Young of the battered women's group in Hayward. Free child care will be provided on the premises.

The session is open only to battered women and they will be free to talk about whatever they wish. No names need be given. Call the women's center if a ride is needed, 537-2112. Discussion will be facilitated by a clinical social worker and battered woman.

Beat women seek shelter

A fundraising dinner to raise money for acquiring a shelter for battered women and their children in southern Alameda County will be held at 6:30 p.m. April 17 at the Tanglewood Recreation Center, 25200 Carlos Bee Boulevard, Hayward.

Tickets ar available at the door and cost $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for children. Those under 5 years of age may attend free.

Green's 67 leads Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. — Hubert Green used a new driver to pound Augusta National's par five holes into submission, birdying all of them on his way to a five - under - par 67 and a two - stroke lead Thursday in the first round of the 41st Masters golf tournament.

"A very enjoyable round," Green commented of his loose - gaited stroll through a sunny, Southern spring day, then added in typical self - deprecation: "It was a very nice way to play Augusta National. I didn't have to play out of the water like I usually do."

The lanky Green, one of the game's more popular performers, admitted to a certain fascination with this tournament, the first of the year's four major tests of golfing greatness.

Green, who has yet to win one of the game's Big Four events, said, "this is a very important part of my life. It's a goal I want to achieve."

His four birdies on the par - five holes, a key factor in his two - shot advantage over 24 - year - old rookie Bill Kratzert and old pro Don January, served as a big step in the right direction.

The 47 - year - old January, the first man off the tee, pampered a chronically ailing back in his solid 69. He often had his caddy pick the ball out of the hole.

Kratzert, who shared a victory in the National Team Championship that closed the 1976 season, was the last man on the course and tied January in the gathering gloom of late afternoon.

He was followed by a starry group at 70 including leading money - winner Tom Watson, injury - troubled U.S. Open champ Jerry Pate, Hale Irwin, Tom Kite and Rik Massengale, the winner of the Bob Hope Desert Classic earlier this season.

Ben Crenshaw and South African Gary Player, the only foreigner ever to win the Masters, headed a group at 71 that also included Mark Hayes, the best of the young men who have dominated the tour this season.

Jack Nicklaus, hungrily eyeing a sixth Masters green jacket and another shot at the unaccomplished Grand Slam, ran into putting problems in his round of par 72. He took 37 strokes on the slow, grainy putting surfaces, three-putted twice and missed two others of four feet or less.

"I'm annoyed with my inability to get the ball in the hole," he said. "It wasn't a bad round — I just didn't score."

Ray Floyd, who played the par - five holes a record 14 under par in his victory last year, was three under on them this time and had a 71.

Tom Weiskopf and PGA champ Dave Stockton went one over par at 73.

Lee Elder, the man who broke the color line in the Masters in 1975, had a 76 in his second start at Augusta. He was tied with the game's latest million - dollar winner, Al Geiberger and 47 - year - old Arnold Palmer.

Slump - ridden Johnny Miller was at 78 and appeared in danger of missing the cut for the final two rounds when the elite, international, invitational field of 77 is trimmed to the low 44 scorers after Friday's play.

Here today, gone tomorrow

On Sports

Sometime next fall the San Francisco 49ers are going to realize they made a bad mistake when they let Monte Clark go.

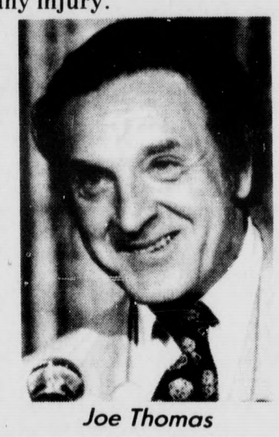
The firing of Clark Wednesday by new 49er owner Edward J. De Bartolo and his son, president Edward J. De Bartolo Jr. is a forewarning to 49er fans that their favorite team will slid back into the depths of the 1973-75 seasons this year.

Why? The reason is simple.

Monte Clark had a great rapport with his players, something that isn't easy to accomplish in these days of individualistic athletes and the 'Everything for me" concept.

He was also a good judge of talent and how to get it.

Many people criticized his decision to trade several top draft choices for quarterback Jim Plunkett but the case is still out on the former Stanford star as his problem is basically one of getting his confidence back rather than any injury.



Joe Thomas

Plunkett lost his confidence when ace wide receiver Willie McGee was injured in the New Orleans game and was out for the season. The loss of McGee enabled opposing defensive backs to double - team veteran Gene Washington on deep patterns. The loss of McGee quite possibly prevented the 49ers from gaining a playoff berth as they started their mid - season slide after he was injured.

The blame for McGee's injury should not rest on Clark's shoulder but rather the "cement" field at Candlestick Park.

Clark managed to pick up several decent offensive linemen when that part of the club was hit by a series of injuries during the pre - season. In fact, building the offensive line was his biggest asset at Miami.

Apparently the reason Clark was fired was the fact he refused to relinquish the powers given him by the old ownership — control of the draft, trades, cuts, waivers, etc.

The De Bartolos wanted new general manager Joe Thomas to handle those affairs. That's the way it's done on most clubs.

However, the 49ers aren't most clubs. They have had the reputation of being "losers" for 30 years in the National Football League and they needed a different approach to get their program on solid ground.

Clark's ideas were that "new approach".

He took a team that had been 5-9 the year before and led it to an 8-6 season, despite the rash of injuries and bad breaks.

The 49ers should have beaten St. Louis and Washington but lost those games because of poor field goal kicking and some costly turnovers.

Those two losses gave the 49ers a 6-3 record and they lost their poise. They were upset by Atlanta the next week and then fell apart against the Rams in the key game of the season.

However, they could, in fact, should, have been 11-3 last year and that would have earned them a playoff berth.

That they didn't make the playoffs was not Clark's fault. He had steadied the club before the St. Louis and Washington disasters.

What the 49ers needed was someone to make the decisions based on his experience and knowledge of the game. Who would know more about that than Clark? He knew the players and he knew the clubs' weaknesses.

Now the 49ers have to start all over again. And with a man as general manager (Thomas) who has seldom been popular with the players on any of the teams he has been with.

San Francisco gave Monte Clark just one year to build the team and when the club failed to make the playoffs someone thought it was his fault so they brought in somebody different.

Now 49er fans will have a long wait on their hands for another playoff contender.

Mistakes stop Dons as SR romps, 11-5

SAN LORENZO — It was an experience any high school baseball coach would like to forget.

Amador Valley High School mentor Don Bush had just seen his team drop a 11-5 decision to East Bay Athletic League rival San Ramon in the consolation finals of the Verl Thornock Memorial Tournament at Arroyo High School here yesterday. The Dons had committed six errors and walked 13 batters despite giving up just three hits.

"It's just one of those things," he sighed. "You work all season on eliminating mistakes but they still happen."

And those mistakes came in abundance in the sixth inning when the Wolves broke the contest wide open.

Leading just 5-4 entering the inning San Ramon exploded for six runs, aided by five walks and two errors.

After one out Amador pitcher Mike Krikorian, who had pitched four innings of hitless ball, walked three straight batters and gave up the Wolves' second hit to winning hurler Mitch Rascano. Another walk to Mike Wallace brought in another run bringing George Ellard into the game to pitch for the Dons.

However, things didn't get any better.

A single by shortstop Tim Rosgen, a passed ball, two errors and another walk brought in another four runs to make the score 11-4.

Amador Valley made a vain attempt to catch up in their half of the sixth, but it was too little, too late.

Sam Jorgensen walked to open the inning but was out at second on a force ball on Gene Stanley's ground ball. Mike Hoff then smashed a triple into center field that scored Stanley with the game's final run.

Eric Austad, who relieved Rascano after three innings, then got the Dons out in order in the seventh to complete the game.

San Ramon took a 1-0 lead in the opening frame.

Catcher Rick Hansen walked with one out but was forced at second on Greg Bishop's ground ball. Rascano walked and John Arnaudon singled to bring in Bishop with the first run.

Amador took the lead briefly in their half of the first when Bill Bevilacqua walked to opening the inning and Mike Connelly was hit by a pitch. After Rob Wicks struck out designated hitter Glen Hill moved the runners along with a ground ball to third baseman Charlie Brice who threw him out. A passed ball allowed Bevilacqua to score and starting pitcher Bob Koopman then lined a single to left to bring in Connelly with the lead run.

The Dons' lead was short - lived, however, as San Ramon came back to score four unearned runs in the second inning and forced Koopman to depart in favor of Krikorian.

Koopman walked three straight batters after one out and an error scored one run. Two more walks by Krikorian brought in the final runs of the inning.

The Dons had five hits as Bevilacqua scored twice, had one hit and one RBI. However, the errors and walks proved to be their downfall.

Austad pitched well for the winners, allowing three hits in his four - inning stint and fanning five batters.

LA belts Giants

LOS ANGELES — Don Sutton fired a four - hitter and the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the San Francisco Giants 5-1 Thursday in their National League baseball opener.

Gary Thomasson slugged the first pitch of the game for a home run, the only run yielded by Sutton, making his sixth straight opening day start.

Los Angeles tied the game in the bottom of the first when Ron Cey doubled home Reggie Smith, who had singled. Bill Russell's sacrifice fly in the fifth inning broke the tie against loser John Montefusco.

Los Angeles added an unearned run in the sixth, and broke the game open in the seventh when Steve Garvey's bases - loaded single produced two more runs.

Cards 12, Pirates 6 — Keith Hernandez drove in four runs for St. Louis while the new - look Pirates made three errors in the first inning.

Hernandez knocked in two runs with a double and another pair with a home run. Starter John Denny and relievers Al Hrabosky and John Sutton scattered 11 Pirate hits to give new Card skipper, Vern Rapp, a successful debut in snowy Three Rivers Stadium.

Mets 5, Cubs 3 — A four - run sixth inning, highlighted by a John Milner double and a two - run single by John Stearns ruined the Cubs Wrigley Field opener.

Met starter Tom Seaver needed eight - inning relief from Skip Lockwood to win his sixth opening - day assignment. Loser Ray Burris walked Seaver to start the fateful eighth, which was also aided by a Lee Mazzilli single and a collision between Cub fielders Jerry Morales and ex - Giant Bobby Murcer.

Twins top A's

MESA, Ariz. — Rod Carew slugged a two-run triple and Craig Kusick followed with a two-run homer in the seventh inning Thursday, powering the Minnesota Twins to a 9-7 victory over the Oakland A's in an exhibition game played as most other big league clubs were opening the regular baseball season.

The Twins scored six runs in the seventh off Doug Bair, one of seven rookies on the A's roster. Glenn Adams hit a two-run homer in the fourth off A's starter Rick Langford, another rookie.

Tony Armas and Rich McKinney homered for Oakland, which finished the exhibition season with a 12-15 record. The Twins finished 14-15.

The two teams will open their American League seasons Saturday in Oakland, with the Twins' Dave Goltz scheduled to pitch against Oakland's Mike Torrez.

Vida Blue, who had been named to open the season for the A's, will instead open the season on the team's disqualified list because of his unexcused absence from the team this week.

But, unless he's traded to another club, Blue probably will make his first start for the A's early next week.

AL wrap-up

Jays open with win

TORONTO, Ont. — The Toronto Blue Jays made their first day in the American League a winner with a 9-5 win over the visiting Chicago White Sox here yesterday.

Doug Ault paced a 16-hit attack with two home runs and four RBI. Much to the delight of the 44,649 fans in attendance for Canada's entrance into the now - poorly titled junior loop, the Jays took the lead for keeps in the fourth on a single by Dave McKay.

Rangers 2, Orioles 1 — Rookie Bump Wills, a central figure in the Lenny Randle - Frank Lucchessi explosion and the son of ex - big leaguer Maury Wills, singled home the winner in the tenth inning to give Bert Blyleven the victory.

Juan Beniquez, who had double with one away, scored the decider. Sacrifice flies by Texas' Jim Sundberg and Baltimore's Rick Dempsey had set the stage for Wills' dramatics.

Royals 7, Tigers4 — A two - run homer by Amos Otis and a three - run blast by John Mayberry led the Royals right back to the spot they ended last season — first place in the AL West.

Otis' homer came with George Brett aboard via a single while Mayberry's shot in the upper deck followed an infield single by Hal McRae and a double by Otis, who added an RBI single in the ninth. Ex - San Francisco Giant Tito Fuentes doubled in a run and scored on a Rusty Staub single for Detroit.

Yankees 3, Brewers 0 — Designated hitter Jim Wynn crashed a tape measure homerun in his first at - bat in the American League while Catfish Hunter silenced Milwaukee for seven innings.

Sparky Lyle finished the Yank shut out after Hunter, who was hit on the left leg by a line drive off the bat of ex - Giant Von Joshua, departed with five strikeouts as opposed to three hits and no walks.

Indians 5, Red Sox 4 — Frank Duffy dashed home ahead of George Scott's throw from first after Duane Kuiper's 11th - inning chopper for the winning run.

Buddy Bell's two - run homer off $1 million reliever Bill Campbell in the ninth sent the contest into extra innings. Dave LaRoche got the win in relief of Fremont's Dennis Eckersley, who went nine, giving up eight hits.

Warriors rout hapless Nets

OAKLAND — Midway through the second quarter last night, New York Nets' assistant coach, Rod Thorn, spotted an injustice and leaped to his feet screaming at referee Richie Powers, "C'om, we're still playing in this league, Rich."

Maybe.

But the way the Golden State Warriors, playing a makeshift lineup, manhandled the Nets, 124-86 before 11,236 witnesses certainly didn't support Thorn's theory.

Thorn assumed responsiblilty for the beleaguered Nets' final three games when head coach Kevin Loughery decided he would be more valuable scouting the Aloha Classic in Honolulu. The Warriors didn't have their usual cast, either.

Forward Jamaal Wilkes was absence because his wife was in labor, while Clifford Ray was held out of the contest to give his gimpy legs a rest before next weeks' playoffs.

Warrior castoff Bubbles Hawkins scored 35 points to lead the game while Rick Barry's 32 topped Golden State. Larry McNeill, the Warriors' Net castoff, scored a season - high 17 points while the big statistical news was Robert Parish's 21 rebounds and six blocked shots in his first - ever NBA start.

Suprisingly, the Nets took the lead 8-2, on pairs of baskets by Al Skinner and Ken Bassett.

From that point until the end of the first quarter, however, the Warriors outscored New York 29-2.

After that the game deterioated into a wild, but crowd - pleasing collection of schoolyard moves, bombs thrown up from all over the court and sailing slam-dunks.

In other NBA contests Indiana dumped the Knicks 114-100, Cleveland rolled over Denver 108-94 and Phoenix topped Kansas City 121-110.

That's some car

Tom Watson is taking his $25,000 Custom Corvette (1963) to the Modesto Car Show this weekend. Watson, a resident of Livermore, has been working on the car for five years. It took him four months to paint the car. It has a 327-cubic-inch engine with four - speed. The paints used cost $350. The car has a custom interior.

Players upset

Clark tells his side

SAN FRANCISCO — Monte Clark, fired by the San Francisco 49ers after turning in one of the best coaching performances in the National Football League last season, said Thursday, "I don't think this discredited me one lick."

He's out as coach, with three years remaining on his contract, because he refused to accept a contract revision insisted upon by the team's new owners. Clark was asked to relinquish his authority over drafting, trades and other player personnel matters to the new general manager, Joe Thomas.

"My knowledge from working with him in Miami and from his record in Baltimore indicated there would be some tumultuous situations that would have to hurt the ballclub," Clark said.

He was fired Tuesday night after turning down the new contract terms which included an immediate $25,000 raise. New team president Edward J. DeBartolo Jr. announced the split at a Wednesday news conference and Thomas' first major job became the search for a new coach.

"I tried to make as many concessions as possible, but there were absolutely no concessions on their side other than money," said Clark. "In my mind, it was necessary to be able to control the various situations in order to insure the attitude and atmosphere that we needed. But they have the right to do what they want."

Several 49ers players expressed disappointment.

Gene Washington, veteran wide receiver, said, "I think all of us realized we were headed in a positive direction and that we'd be a winning club."

He added, however, "You also have to look at it from the standpoint of the guy who buys the club."

Quarterback Jim Plunkett said, "It's a total surprise."

Delvin Williams, one of the NFL's leading rushers, said, "For them to come in and fire him doesn't say much."

The 49ers were 5-9 in 1975, their third consecutive losing season, and turned around to 8-6 in Clark's first year as a head coach.

Olympians break American records

CANTON, Ohio — Jim Montgomery and Bruce Furniss, teammates on the U.S. gold medal - winning 800 - meter freestyle relay unit, cracked American records Thursday night in the National Amateur Athletic Union indoor swimming meet.

Montgomery, a powerful Indiana University senior, lowered the 200-yard freestyle mark to 1 minute, 35.67 seconds during the second day of competition in Branin Natatorium.

Moments later, Furniss, one of NCAA champion Southern California's brightest stars, swept to victory in the 400 individual medley in a record time of 3:52.08.

Nancy Garapick of Canada, another Olympian, set an American open standard with 4:19.05 in the 400 individual medley.

The old record of 4:22.83 was established by Tracy Caulkins of Nashville, Tenn., three weeks ago.

Ohlone nips Glads, 8-7

FREMONT — Oh well, you win some and you lose some. Or in Chabot's case, you win some and you lose more.

The Gladiators played another down - to - the - wire, photo - finish baseball game with Ohlone College here yesterday, but lost on a two - run single by Joe Castro after an error kept Ohlone alive as the Fremont School prevailed, 8-7.

John Prieto, who pitched three rocky innings in relief of control - plagued Jeff Clark, picked up the win for Ohlone, while stocky left - hander Steve Ward suffered the loss after pitching the entire contest.

The Glads were one out away from heading into the ninth - inning with a 7-6 lead when shortstop Tom Castro threw a ball hit by Mike Wilkinson into the dirt at first base.

Ruben Berrios then laced a sharp single to left, while Ward walked Danny Glorieta to load the bases.

Joe Castro waited for a decent offering and walloped a pitch right back through the box that plated the go - ahead runs for Ohlone.

Tom Castro was plummeted by Prieto on a pitch and was sacrificed to second on a bunt by Frank Knox. John Cook singled to score Castro and went to second when the throw at the plate was too late to catch him.

Dan Pearson followed with a routine ground ball to third base, but Ohlone's Mike Teuscher threw the ball away, scoring Cook with the run.

The lead switched hands frequently in the contest, as the Glads jumped out to a 1-0 first - inning lead on a walk to Cook and Pearson's triple, but Ohlone marched to the plate for six runs in the bottom of the second by banging out five base hits, including an RBI single by Ken Roeber and a two - run double by Ruben Berrios.

Cook walloped a triple to drive in a run for Chabot in the third inning and scored when the left - fielder bobbled the ball, while Randy LaRocca plated a run with a looping base hit to right in the same inning to cut the Ohlone lead to 6-4.

Chabot made it 6-5 off of Prieto in the seventh on a single by Alan Regier, Pearson's walk, and a two - out single by Dan Randle.

Randle, ironically, turned from hero to scapegoat in the last inning when he mistook Brad Kern's high infield chopper for a pop fly.

Randle, who had walked with nobody out, touched the bag at second on the hit - and - run play, but never saw the ball hit the ground because his back was to the ball while trying to steal. Upon scurrying back to first base, which was now being occupied by Kern, Randle was tagged out.

Tom Castro followed with a base hit that would have easily scored the speedy Randle, but the Glads were left stranded as Knox flied to left and Cook popped out to Prieto to end the game.

'Quakes open with Aztecs

SAN JOSE — Okay, all you animals with the red, white and black banners; North American Soccer League Commissioner Phil Woosnam has a message for you:

Pack the pit, but stay off the pitch.

Yesterday morning, Woosnam telexed San Jose Earthquake owner Milan Mandaric and informed him that the league will tolerate nothing but the tightest security this season. Players must be protected from spectators post-game exuberance or fines and possible forfeits will result.

Keeping their 14,202 season ticket holders — and those who buy the remaining and still available seats for Saturday night's NASL territory and watch Steve outrace the opposition.

San Jose's Davie Kemp will give away a lot of heighth to David, but says the Earthquakes can control Steve.

"Players like that have to be closely marked but we have several players on the bench, as well as myself, who can stay with him," Kemp said.

Charlie Cook is playing for Chelsea which should move into the first division next season while Brian McNeil and Bristol are on the verge of relegation to division two.

Nor, is the 'Quakes roster a well-oiled unit just yet.

Wing Vlade Zabarac and defender Miro Pavlovic are expected to join the club by Saturday, so veterans Mani Hernandez and Pepe Fernandez were dropped from the roster Wednesday, with one of the two back - up goalkeepers, Terry Weekes or Paul Gizzi, expected to be cut today.

That won't likely be the end of the 'Quakes personnel changes with Julie Vee still performing in Belgium. How well the newcomers — Zabarac and John Smillie, along with rookie Greg McKeown are first - year 'Quakes — fit in could be evidenced by San Jose 5-2 pre - season record, including a win in the Portland Timbers mini - tournament last weekend.

"That 5-1 record is a good thing," said coach Gabbo Gavric yesterday, omitting the 'Quakes 3-1 loss to collegiate champ San Francisco, "There's no way you can get confidence losing games."

The addition and retention of numerous veteran players should keep the 'Quakes in their lofty position, Gavric opines, plus, he said, "This team is richer for the experience of playing in the semi - finals last year." After San Jose took the Portland affair with tie - breaker wins over Portland and Minnesota, the Oregonian, with help from the Timbers' staff, took on the 'Quakes for their rough brand of play.

"Some people are talking and they don't know they're talking about," Gavric said of the reports, which centered on San Jose defense against Timber forward and "skill" player Stewart Scullion.

"Strength and aggressiveness are a part of the skills," said Gavric, pointing to Tony Simoes, Miro Pavlovic and all - time NASL goal lead Ilija Mitic as examples of San Jose's own "skill" players.

Gavric then made what has become a fundamental point in sports in the past few years.

"Whatever we do," he said, "We do to please the crowd. People in San Jose need toughness and aggressiveness."

He continued, "We have guys from all different countries all over the field, each one adding something different — and everyone says that's what this country's been about for the past 200 years."

Yep, just as long as the fans don't get too pleased and trample the visiting team.

SJ Relays

Gangnuss goes for 14 flat

SAN JOSE — Chuck Gangnuss will get a chance to get revenge when he and teammate Jim Boulware compete in the San Jose Relays at San Jose City College here tomorrow.

Gangnuss will run the 120-yard high hurdles and Boulware will try his hand at the 440-yard intermediates, not a regular high school event.

Chuck had the fastest time in the heats of the Hill Invitational last week in Los Altos but hit his ankle on a hurdle in the finals and failed to place. His heat time of 14.2 is the fastest time in the East Bay this season.

His main competition should come from Hill winner Rick Clark of Menlo - Atherton, who ran a 14.3 at Los Altos and has a 14.1 seasonal best this year.

"I think Chuck can dip under 14 flat," admitted Dublin coach Tom Cathcart yesterday. "He should have won at Los Altos and I think he will at San Jose. He'll have to concentrate on it but I believe he can do it."

Boulware will be going up against some awesome competition in the intermediates. Andre Phillips of Silver Creek (SJ) won the 330-yard lows in a blazing 37.1 last week and finished fourth in the state last season despite a hamstring injury. He ran a 36.1 last year.

"It'll be good experience for Jim," Cathcart remarked. "That Phillips is very tough but this race will help him get in condition for the later meets."

Another outstanding high school race should be the two - mile where Rod Berry (North Coast Section cross - country champion) leads a talented field. Berry has run a 9:01.2 and Tim Holmes of Downey, the Sac - Joaquin Section champ, has done 9:02.4.

Chabot College will be well - represented at the meet, mainly in the person of Mike McRae, sprinter and triple jumper.

McRae has run a 10.4 100-meters this season (best in the state) and has triple jumped 50-11½. However, Chris DeFrance of Bakersfield has the nations' best mark with a 51-1 leap and should provide plenty of competition for McRae.

The open division will see Terry Albritton (71-8½) and Al Feuerbach (71-7) clash in the shot put along with Olympic discus champion Mac Wilkins (69-1¼).

Don Quarrie, Olympic 200-meter champion and second in the 100, leads a great sprint field. Other top sprinters are high school record - holder Houston McTear and Olympic finalist Guy Abrahams.

NBC signs O.J.

LOS ANGELES — Pro football star O.J. Simpson has signed an exclusive contract with NBC that will include Olympic commentary, variety show appearances and starring roles in television movies.

Under the multimillion - dollar agreement, the all - pro running back for the Buffalo Bills will produce some of the movies.

Simpson's participation in sports commentary will not begin until July 1978, and he will provide commentary from the 1980 Olympics in Moscow.

A San Francisco native, Simpson has appeared in such theatrical movies as "The Towering Inferno," "The Klansman," "Cassandra Crossing" and the upcoming "Capricorn One." He played a small role in the television epic, "Roots."

What people are saying...

"I find that people deal with me as if I don't have needs like theirs. As if I never get lonely or scared or confused . . . I find it's really hard not to live my life for what other people expect of me."
— Actress Candice Bergen, in a recent interview.

"I can think of a lot of dinner parties where I wish I had brought a book . . . in my family, we were always encouraged to read as much as possible."
— Sen. Edward Kennedy, on Amy Carter's practice of bringing books to dinner parties.

"Young people are not disillusioned in the aftermath of Vietnam and Watergate. However, I hope we don't get into another period of feeling that the 30-year-olds are about to take over the world. They're not, and they can't."
— Joseph Sisco, former State Department official, now president of American University in Washington, D.C.

She vanishes because of Moonie 5 trial

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "Moonie" Sheryl Greek vanished to escape a court order that may give her parents the right to take her away for "deprogramming," says a spokesman for the Unification Church.

Mendocino County Superior Court Judge Timothy O'Brian granted Adrian Greek, a Portland, Ore., father of 10, a temporary conservatorship over his daughter, who turned 21 last Sunday. But the judge's order gave Greek custody only in order to bring her into court so he could hold a hearing on whether to grant Greek a longer conservatorship.

But Richard Lewis, church spokesman, says the young woman decided to leave town rather than go with her parents when she heard about the March 28 court decision.

Since then, Greek, his wife, Anne, and their son, Phil, have gone to the gates of the Moonie camp in Booneville and knocked on doors here and in Berkeley, trying to find their daughter.

Phil Greek is a former Moonie who brought his sister into the church before severing his ties with it.

Other followers of the Rev. Sun Myung Moon have told the family that Sheryl is on an out - of - town fund - raising tour for the church.

Her disappearance conflicts with a letter from the church to San Francisco Bay area judges promising to produce church members at hearings if the judges would agree not to make conservatorship decisions unless the individual was present.

Church leader Alan Seher, who wrote the letter, said he had urged Sheryl to contact her parents or church attorney Ralph Baker, but that she was scared.

"She saw what happened to the trial of the five and she doesn't want it to happen to her," he said.

"The five" are five young church members — Barbara Underwood, Leslie Brown, Jacqueline Katz, Janice Kaplan and John Hovard — who were placed under their parents' control for 30 days March 24 by Judge S. Lee Vavuris. Miss Underwood, 25, Miss Katz, 21, and Miss Brown, 24, have since renounced their connection with Rev. Moon.

Meanwhile, the state Supreme Court, meeting in Los Angeles Thursday, denied a writ filed by the five Moonies asking the court to delay implementing the conservatorship order.

They also had asked that the five be released from control of conservators pending a decision on the merits by the state Court of Appeal. That hearing is scheduled for Monday.

Folk program

The Aman Folk Ensemble will perform Monday, April 25 at 8 p.m. in the Amador Valley High School auditorium in Pleasanton. The internationally-acclaimed dance, song and orchestral group boasts a costume collection of almost 2,000 pieces of exotica collected from such countries as Yugoslavia,Romania, Tunisia, Egypt, Morocco and numerous Balkan countries. The company of dancers is accompanied by 16 musicians who have mastered more than 75 instruments. Tickets priced at $2 may be purchased at the Pleasanton Recreation Department and the Chabot College book store.

Most U.S. homes would need more insulation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Up to two - thirds of all American homes may have to be insulated or have more insulation added under President Carter's energy conservation program, Federal Energy Administrator John O'Leary indicated Thursday.

O'Leary told a Senate hearing that one - third of all existing U.S. homes have no insulation and another third are badly insulated.

He said the President's program would contain a "blend of incentives and disincentives" to make sure that all homes are energy - efficient. O'Leary said he is hopeful this can be accomplished within 10 years.

Asked later by a reporter whether this means that two - thirds of all homeowners would be required to add insulation, O'Leary said that was essentially correct. He said a crash nationwide program to get all homes and buildings properly insulated is needed "given the seriousness of the situation."

O'Leary's comments came as details of the administration's over-all energy package began to unfold. President Carter announced the first section by saying he is deferring U.S. development of nuclear breeder reactors and plutonium reprocessing programs.

White House energy adviser James R. Schlesinger reportedly was briefing key members of Congress that the remainder of the President's program, to be unveilled April 20, would include continued price controls on natural gas and probably a stiff tax on fuel - inefficient automobiles.

O'Leary declined to say how the administration planned to accomplish the mandatory home insulation program.

One possibility mentioned frequently is requiring utilities to install the insulation and then bill consumers — either directly or indirectly through surcharges to all customers.

There might also be tax credits proposed for homeowners willing to do the job themselves, some sources have suggested.

O'Leary also indicated that the April 20 program would include energy - efficiency standards for new homes.

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed proposals will be received at the Office of the City Clerk of the City of Pleasanton, Civic Center, 200 Bernal Avenue, Pleasanton, California, until April 18, 1977 2:00 P.M., for the installation of a Water Main in the following portion of the City:

The intersection of Valley Avenue and Santa Rita Road, City of Pleasanton, as shown and delineated by these specifications. (The City of Pleasanton will furnish all pipe and fittings).

Specifications, and standard proposal forms to be used for bidding on this project can be obtained at the office of the City Engineer, Civic Center, Pleasanton, California, and copies thereof may be obtained at said office upon payment of the sum of Five Dollars ($5.00) per set with no refund.

No Bid will be considered unless it is made on a blank form furnished by the City Engineer and is made in accordance with provisions of the Proposal Requirements and Conditions set forth under Section 2 of the Standard Specifications of the State of California.

The Bidder to whom award is made shall furnish performance and payment bonds at the time of signing of the formal agreement. One of the said bonds shall guarantee faithful performance of the contract by the Contractor and shall be executed in an amount equal to the contract price. The other of the said bonds shall be furnished as required by the terms of Sections 4200 to 4208 of the Government Code of the State of California, and shall also be executed in the amount of the contract price.

Said Bidder shall secure and maintain such insurance policies as are required and submit evidence that such insurance will be in force for the length of the contract, and shall submit evidence of a valid State of California Contractor's License in the category required for the work being performed, and a current business license to conduct business in the City of Pleasanton, California.

The City of Pleasanton reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive any informality or irregularity in any bid, or to delete portions thereof.

Prevailing wage rates have been adopted by Resolution No. 75-59 by the City Council, and are on file with the City Clerk. It will be necessary for a notice of the existence of said resolution to be provided to each employee who works on the project or post the notice in a conspicuous place at the job site.

A Statement of Financial Responsibility, Technical Ability and Experience, and a list of Subcontractors shall accompany all proposals. Failure to furnish such statements may result in rejection of the proposal. Forms for these statements will be furnished by the City Engineer.

MURRAY SCHOOL DISTRICT
RESOLUTION NO. 1976/77-20

WHEREAS, surplus real property and classroom facilities exist within the MURRAY SCHOOL DISTRICT, and

WHEREAS, it has been determined that certain real property and classroom facilities are not needed for the intended use of the MURRAY SCHOOL DISTRICT during the school years 1977 - 1978, 1978 - 1979, and 1979 - 1980.

NOW BE IT RESOLVED that it is the intent of the Board of Trustees of the MURRAY SCHOOL DISTRICT to lease that portion of the Dublin Elementary School, located at 7997 Vomac Road, Dublin, California, described as follows:

Nine classrooms numbered B1, B2-3, B4-5, B6, B10-11, B12 together with the furniture and equipment located therein and access to and use of surfaced area, playground and courtyard area adjoining the above named classrooms.

Lease of the above - named property shall be for a period of one to three years and shall include such terms and conditions as to cause no liability or cost to the MURRAY SCHOOL DISTRICT.

Use of the facilities shall be for educational purposes and shall be in accordance with all rules, regulations, statutes and laws governing the use of said facilities.

Sealed proposals to lease the above - described real property and classroom facilities will be received and considered at the regularly scheduled Board of Trustees meeting of the MURRAY SCHOOL DISTRICT, at 8:00 P.M., April 18, 1977, at Frederiksen School, 7243 Tamarack, Dublin California.

The minimum price that will be considered for the lease of the aforementioned real property and facilities is Sixteen Thousand, Two Hundred Dollars ($16,200.00) per year.

PASSED AND ADOPTED THIS 21 day of March 1977, by the following called vote:
AYES: Foster, Henderson, Jeffery, Snyder, and Woy

Disaster care is schools' meet topic

"Earthquake or Other Disaster in '77?" is the theme of a mass care shelter workshop for some 100 Alameda County school principals in 23 school districts in Hayward at 9 a.m. on Thursday, April 14.

The workshop is being co - sponsored by the Oakland - South Alameda county Chapter of the American Red Cross, the Alameda County Schools Department, and the Office of Emergency Services. Each Red Cross administrative office, including the Valley office at 373 North L St. in Livermore, will spearhead participation.

The mass care shelter workshop is only the prelude to full public participation in all sections of the county later, after some 350 school principals have worked out detailed plans on the local level. Individuals and groups such as the Parent - Teachers Association, will be invited to attend.

Ultimate goal is to have a cadre of, perhaps, 100,000 Oakland and Southern Alameda County residents schooled in the rudiments of dealing with disasters and setting up mass care shelters.

Questions which worried mothers, left alone with their children, will need answers to, will be provided at the workshop. They might include "how do you turn off the gas and electricity? What do you do during an earthquake? If my home is damaged, should I try to make use of what remains? Where is the nearest mass care shelter? Or how do you make plans for home Fire escape drills?"

Roy J. Mangini, coordinator of health, safety and physical education for the county school department, said there was a possibility there might be another "preparedness session" for school personnel. Also assisting is Frank J. Zwolinski, emergency services coordinator for the sheriff's office.

"If you are talking about earthquakes," Dale Roe, Red Cross chapter manager observed, "there is absolutely no question that we will have one of major proportions some day. It is only a question of when. The further we are away from the last one, the closer we are to the next."

E. Stanley Wyatt, director, Red Cross Disaster Services, agreed with Roe's observation. Groups of school principals or their assistants will be "color coded" for the exercise and guides will lead them around to the seven "stations" which offer such services as: Reception of evacuees, housing, feeding, maintenance, utilities and safety, health services, registration and family services.

Key speakers at the affair will be Roe and Rock La-Fleche, superintendent of the Alameda County Schools Department.

The workshop on the 14th will be held at the schools department offices at 685 A St., Hayward.
